

WE the undersigned endorse the objectives of the Ann Arbor Viet Nam Committee. They, and all other participants in the International Days of Protest, are simply asking, in ways they deem appropriate, that the American Government support its professed principles of international law and self-determination. The grave implications of our extended and brutal involvement in Viet Nam can no longer be ignored. Our present policies perpetuate regimes without popular support, continue a war which threatens to annihilate large segments of the populations of Viet Nam, and could lead to nuclear war. We believe it is the duty of every citizen to protest policies of his government that he considers to be immoral. Silence in such circumstances becomes tacit consent.

Thomas Mayer, Sociology
Mr. and Mrs. William Gamson
Richard Mann, Psychology
Rev. Daniel Burke, Episcopal
Marshall Sahlins, Anthropology
Marc Ross, Physics
Roger Lind
Harold S. Shapiro
Nicolas Kazarinoff, Mathematics
Luther H. Buchele
James Caughran
Robert Posner, Economics
Mr. and Mrs. Julien Gendell
Philip Converse
Joseph Horowitz, Mathematics
Harold Orbach, Sociology
Edward K. Mellon, Jr., Chemistry
Harriet Pollatsek, Mathematics
Carol Wollin
Jeanne Jackson
Craig Morgan, Economics
Wayne Vroman, Economics
Jeff Casswell, Economics
James Bass, Economics
John Weeks, Economics
Bart Meyers, Economics
Philip Weitzman, Economics
Dean Sanders, Economics
Norma and Harry Finkelstein
Janice Seidler
Gail W. Kellum
Mr. and Mrs. Joel Isaacson
Bruce Bevelheimer

Frank A. Raymond, Mathematics
Allen L. Shields, Mathematics
Noel Hicks, Mathematics
John Gyr, MHRI
Robert C. Angell, Sociology
Harold Rausch, Psychology
Maxwell O. Reade, Mathematics
Arthur Schwartz, Mathematics
Rev. Edwin Gaede, Unitarian Church
Peter Rosenthal, Mathematics
David Bernstein, Mathematics
Micheal Locker, MHRI
Herbert C. Kelman, Psychology
Norma Diamond, Anthropology
Kenneth Leisenring, Mathematics
Fern Horowitz, Mathematics
Gabriel Weinreich, Physics
Joseph Russo, Psychology
Dennis Roseman, Mathematics
Roger C. Lyndon, Mathematics
Nathan Coburn, Mathematics
Marcia Barabee
Bernice Glass
Hanne Sonquist
Mrs. Morton Scaevitz
Hope Davis
Pauline Plum
Nancy Todd
Don and Barbara Rosse
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gadlin
Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ciarllo
Carl Oglesby, Pres., S.D.S.